

FRANKLIN COUNTY

The Department provides the following programs and specialized services:

- Community Service Program – The Department works with non-profit and government agencies to place offenders and monitor completion of Court ordered community service hours. The goal is to instill in the offender a sense of belonging and commitment to the community. The Community Service Program is coordinated by the Deputy Chief.
- Day Reporting Center – Qualified offenders are referred to the Franklin County Day Reporting Center. The Program is centered on treatment, drug/alcohol testing, and an array of cognitive behavioral programs that seek to educate and rehabilitate offenders. The target offender is the one who would ordinarily receive a county jail sentence or a short state prison sentence. The Program is, also, used as a sentencing alternative for probation/parole violators.
- Drug and Alcohol/Probation Partnership (DAPP) – This is a collaborative effort between the Department, Drug and Alcohol Commission, Day Reporting Center, and treatment providers. The target offender is the Level 3 and Level 4 non-violent Sentencing Guideline offender who qualifies for Intermediate Punishment. An offender sentenced to this Program participates in the Day Reporting Center, is assigned an intensive drug and alcohol case manager, and is required to receive a drug and alcohol assessment. The mode of treatment indicated by the assessment is incorporated into the conditions of supervision. The offender must, also, attend self-help groups such as Alcoholics Anonymous or Narcotics Anonymous.
- Electronic Monitoring/House Arrest – Offenders can be placed in this Program in lieu of incarceration or as part of an Intermediate Punishment sentence. While in the Program, the offender is closely monitored and attends any treatment determined to be necessary. If warranted, the offender with alcohol problems can be placed on Secure Continuous Remote Alcohol Monitoring (SCRAM/SCRAMx) in conjunction with electronic monitoring. One (1) probation officer is assigned to this Program.
- Intensive Supervision – Offenders receiving an Intermediate Punishment sentence receive intensive supervision as part of the conditions. Intensive supervision is, also, used for individuals who violate conditions of supervision as an alternative to incarceration. Offenders are assessed for treatment needs and any treatment needs identified are incorporated into the supervision plan. The offenders receive frequent urinalysis testing to monitor compliance and progress. Curfews may, also, be a part of the Program. One (1) probation officer is assigned to this Program.
- Pre-Release Program - Also known as Work Release, this Program allows an eligible inmate to seek and maintain employment while serving a county jail sentence. The Department conducts investigations to verify eligibility and monitors the inmates participating in the Program. The inmate pays toward fines, costs and restitution while in the Program. The inmate, also, continues to pay child support, if applicable, and pays toward family obligations.
- Mental Health Supervision Program – One (1) probation officer is assigned to this Program and supervises all offenders with mental health issues. The probation officer provides close supervision and works with the assigned mental health professional to ensure that the offender receives all necessary treatment and available services to assist in making a satisfactory adjustment in the community.

- Mental Health/Jail Diversion Program – This Program identifies individuals with serious mental health issues and co-occurring disorders, who have committed a crime, violated probation/parole, or exhibit behavior that may lead to violations. The offender is assessed by a team consisting of individuals from the Department, the Franklin County Jail, the Day Reporting Center, and a forensic caseworker. If placed in the Program the offender is diverted from jail and receives a high level of service through the team to assist in addressing problem areas and making a successful adjustment in the community.

- Sexual Offender Supervision Program – The Department uses the “Containment Model” to manage the sexual offender population. One (1) probation officer is assigned to this Program and ensures compliance with all treatment requirements, collaborates with the treatment providers, and ensures compliance with any applicable Sex Offender Registration and Notification Act Requirements. The probation officer, also, completes Court-ordered Presentence Investigations Reports on sexual offenders.
